CARING FOR ANIMALS

Animals are classified as domestic and wild. Domestic animals can also be called tame animals. The animals are not afraid of people and are used to them. Domestic animals are reared for meat, wool and eggs. However, some domestic animals are not kept for any of the above purposes. These animals are called pets. Pets are animals that are reared for pleasure. Examples of pets include; cats, dogs, parrots etc.

Whether tame or wild, animals are like human beings. They should be cared for since they have feelings. They can become anxious, sad, happy, tired, hungry, thirsty and sick.

A well-fed animal is a healthy animal. If it is a cow, it will give birth to healthy calves and produce plenty of milk.

IN game parks and game reserves, wild animals are looked after well. This is because they are a source of income to the government through tourism.

When animals fall sick, one should send for a veterinarian. The vet will offer the right treatment and advice.

Because prevention is better than cure, a good farmer will ensure that animals are fed on a balanced diet, vaccinated and sprayed regularly.
